The new departure that the POST is in favor of is the full recognition of Republican principles, to be enforced by men regardless of their past political record:

First—Equal rights before law and at the ballot-box, for all men, regardless of color.

Second—The education of every child in the land, regardless of color.

Third—Local self government for every town, township, city, and county in the state.

Fourth—A tariff for the protection of American labor.

Fifth—"A reform of the city, county and state governments, and a reduction of the burdens of the people."

Now, whoever will come with us on the above platform is a good enough Republican for us. It is a departure that we shall stand by, and we believe that nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand true Republicans in the state will do likewise. We will welcome with open arms every man who will join with us in this noble cause, let his past record be Democratic, liberal or Republican. We are working for the future, and care not what the man's name or color may be, so he will help in building up school houses and educating the whole people, and making our old mother state prosperous.

Rev. Father Gross, for many years in charge of St. Thomas's Catholic Church of this city, resigned on Sunday last to the regret of all our people. He was exceedingly popular with this entire community; all learned to love him many years ago, and the longer he remained the greater his influence has been for good. We are sorry that the Rev. Father found that his health compelled him to leave, but hope it may speedily improve, and that we may see him again in charge of St. Thomas's Church.

THE WILMINGTON POST.

W. P. CANADAY, Proprietor.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 8, 1883.

Hon. Frank Hatton, First Assistant Postmaster General, is in New York.

Col. A. M. Waddell will deliver the oration at the King's Mountain school commencement.

Mr. Edmund Richardson, the great Mississippi cotton planter and president of the World's Industrial and Cotton Exposition at New Orleans, is a native of Caswell county, N. C., and about sixty-five years of age.

At the earnest solicitation of many friends, and the great demand for the last issue of the POST, we will republish in our next issue of the paper the able address of Hon. George C. Gorham, delivered at the National Cemetery on the 30th of May.

We learn from the Observer that Judges Bond and Seymore are in attendance on the U. S. Circuit Court at Raleigh. Messrs. Russell, McRae, Stedman and Bellamy, attorneys from this city, are also attending the court. U. S. District Attorny Robinson is also on hand with his able assistant, Mr. Willis Bagly.

WILSON AND FLORENCE R. R

The question is very frequently asked, whether the new Road from Wilson to Florence, leaving this city off the main line of travel between the north and south will injure Wilmington. It is a very important one, and a matter that should be studied well, but one that we take to be entirely settled as to the fact whether the road will be constructed or not. We are informed that Mr. Bridgers and his friends have decided to build the road; so that is settled. Now, the question is, as Boss Tweed said, "what are you going to do about it?" If our merchants had treated Mr. Bridgers as a friend instead of treating him like an alien or an enemy; if they had taken him by the hand and seconded his efforts; if they had asked him to join in building up Wilmington and at the same time joined him in building up the railroads, we might have had a bright and brilliant future; but instead of that we may expect to have hard work to hold our own for the next ten years. If our business men were enterprising; if they could see further than their own noses in the future, we might expect even now something for Wilmington, but they only set back in the shade and take what comes to them, and grumble because Mr. Bridgers does not bring more; hav'nt the energy to strike out and work for the trade of the interior, but wish others to do it for them, therefore we may expect present condition until the other cities of the state exceed her in population and wealth.

The railroad men who control the great route between the north and south cannot study about the wants of Wilmington, they have their own interests to lookout for, and they have the energy and good sense to do it. Our people may make up their minds to have two branch roads leading from Wilson, N. C., and from Florence, S. C., to Wilmington, within the next two years, and Mr. Bridgers will not be to blame for performing his duty by his stockholders either. While Mr. B. is at work night and day in the hot sun, our own grumblers are laying back in the shade, drinking ice water and enjoying the cool breezes and swearing that he is the enemy of Wilmington.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

No man ever entered office under such embarrassing circumstances, and with such a large proportion of the nation against him as President Arthur. He found the party split up into factions, rings and cliques; all at war with each other; every man for himself, and no one apparently working for the good of the party, and it looked at the time that President Arthur assumed the chief magistracy as if the whole party was completely and forever gone. But the President took a stand against the great army of office hunters, he turned out no man without good and sufficient reason. He filled vacancies with the best material offered. He appointed Grant men, Blaine men, or Sherman men, according to their merits and not on account of their support for either of the above candidates at Chicago. No man ever acted with more caution or good judgment, and the consequence is, to-day, the party is more thoroughly united than it has been since 1876. President Arthur, in the first place, appointed the leading Blaine man of the country to his cabinet, Hon. William E. Chandler, one of the ablest political managers in the United States. It is very well known that Mr. Brewster, his attorney general, was opposed to General Grant, Mr. Teller was almost neutral on the question, while Secretary Folger was on the bench in New York and could not, and did not, take part for anybody. Mr. Lincoln was continued from Mr. Garfield's cabinet. So, of the first cabinet appointed by President Arthur, Mr. Howe was the only outspoken Grant man selected. And so it has been with the subordinate positions; Mr. Arthur has tried to fill them with the best men, and we all confess that he has succeeded far better than any President has for many years past.

With such a record is it a wonder that the party is fast becoming united, harmonized and solid. The President is at the head of his party, and he recognized that fact, and to be a successful commander and chief of the Republican forces he knew that he must have a united army, and like a good general he has gone to work to gain the respect of the rank and file, as well as the officers of the Republican hosts. Now, is it not manifestly the duty of every Republican in the country to stand by the President in this good work, and do all that is possible to make his efforts a complete success? We shall perform our duty to the very best of our ability. Every true patriot to his party and every man who loves principle better than spoils will turn to and do likewise.

We know that every man in the President's cabinet, to-day have fully determined to work for a united and harmonious party, by giving the country, in the first place, good government, and in the second place recognizing no Grantisms or Blainisms, but working for Republicanism. We have full confidence in their patriotism and ability to succeed, and therefore we have no fears for the future of the Republican party of the country. With Arthur as commander-in-chief, aided by Folger, Teller, Chandler, Brewster and others success is bound to be ours.

Gov. Cameron on Decoration Day.

The following patriotic letter from the governor of Virginia in response to an invitation for decoration day, will be read with interest:

RICHMOND, VA., May 28.—HON. W. P. CANADAY, WILMINTON, N. C.—My Dear Sir: I have this moment received your invitation of the twenty-sixth, to attend the memorial celebration in your city on the thirtieth instant. The state of my health imperatively demands a negative reply. Even were this not so, a pressure of official duties absolutely precludes my absence from Richmond at this time. Your letter informs me that Hon. George C. Gorham will be the orator of the occasion. I know him well enough to believe that his utterances will be catholic and national. For if there is one thing over which no excuse is left for people north or south to quarrel it is the pride which all Americans should feel in the bravery, and the sorrow which all Americans should feel in the blood shed, of the gallant men who, thinking themselves right, died for the one side and for the other.

I believe now that our common memories should be made to contribute to our common destinies.

I believe that these meetings should be held, not only over the federal dead, nor yet over the confederate dead, but over our dead, the dead of both causes; that we should all meet, and all bring a wreath to the grave of any and every man who was brave and honest enough [illegible] talk that, without the trick of eloquence, I would give you. I hope that the memorial association of your section unite to pay tribute to all the gallant dead, no matter what flag they followed or what creed they held.

Your letter assures me I would be welcome could I come. As I cannot come; I hope this contribution to the sentiment of the occasion will be welcome to all classes of our people in your community. At least if, accepting your kind invitation, I could speak in no other way than of eulogy to the martyrs of either faith. Of course I can write only as I would speak. I shall never cease to feel pride and sorrow for my confederate comrades; and in this stubborn pride and sorrow for the past I sacrifice nothing of respect for our past opponents, nor of my belief that they are your friends in the present, and that a union between us is the only hope for the future.

I am, sir, most respectfully and truly, WILLIAM E. CAMERON.

The signer of the above letter is a native of N. C., but now the Governor of the great state of Virginia. He was a gallant confederate soldier, and his sentiments are shared by hundred of thousands of ex-confederates to-day, who will follow Cameron and Mahone, and their patriotic work of maintaining the Union of the states, and cultivating a reverence for the brave men, who died on either side during the late war.

Gov. Cameron is right. He would have been embraced with open arms by the citizens of his native state, who would esteem it an honor to have him back in North Carolina, but we hope the time is not far distant, when his eloquence will be heard upon the hustings, for the benefit of his mother state.

Marine Hospital Service,

The special board appointed to examine candidates for appointment as assistant surgeons in the marine hospital service has reported that the following five candidates passed the examination in the order named: One, Arthur D. Bevan, of Chicago; two, A. H. Glennan, of the District of Columbia; three, Eugene Wasdon, of South Carolina; four, K. P. Battle, of North Carolina; five, S. D. Brooks, of Massachusetts. There is at present one vacancy in the service. Mr. Bevan will receive the appointment. The other successful candidates will be appointed in the order named as soon as any vacancies occur in the service. The board examined a class of twenty persons.—National Republican.

SENATOR SHERMAN AT A COUNTY CONVENTION.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, June 3.—The Richland county Republican convention, which met here yesterday, was one of the largest and most spirited ever held in the county. Senator Sherman was made permanent president. On taking the chair he made a speech discussing briefly the national and state questions that are to form the political issues of the immediate future. His declaration that the Republican party was in favor of a tariff for the protection of labor as well a revenue, and that the party planted itself on the principle of the Scott law as right and politic, in that it required the liquor traffic to pay its just proportion of taxes, was heartily applauded. A full list of delegates, uninstructed, was appointed to the state convention, headed by Senator Sherman, and a resolution was passed in favor of a protective tariff and state taxation of the liquor traffic.

A great man does not refuse to attend a county convention of his neighbors and friends. John Sherman is a great man, one of the ablest living statesman, and a leader whose councils are always good. Had Ohio followed his advice in 1882, it would have gone Republican; it is not apt to be misled again by the weak headed, and we may look for a grand victory under the leadership of John Sherman, whenever he takes the lead and is properly sustained by the party managers, he always carries his state. His tariff plank alone will be sufficient to carry Ohio.

A Lesson for North Carolina.

We think we can see in the marvelous growth of Texas, and the means by which it has been promoted, a lesson of infinite value to other southern states and especially to North Carolina—a state, which for purposes of development is as new as Texas. The obvious explanation of the extraordinary progress of Texas is that it has pursued a liberal policy in respect to railroads, in the construction of which its people have had the good sense to recognize their only chance to keep up with the procession. Between 1872 and 1882, the state gained 1,175,000 in population; increased its crop of cereals 28,000,000 bushels; its crop of cotton 1,200,000 bales, and added $26,000,000 to its exports, while it imports increased only $3,000.000. A million people now inhabit the country tributary to the Texas Pacific, and New Orleans Pacific railroads, owning taxable property to the amount of $300,000,000. A great agricultural region, which, two years ago was almost without a human habitation, is now dotted with farms, and sawmills and villages and cities; and is above all the home of a prosperous people. Such progress has no precedent in history—but a railroad has been the cause of it all.

North Carolina has many advantages over Texas. It has a more healthful climate, a greater variety of products, greater mineral resources, vastly superior facilities for manufacturing enterprises of every kind, more good [illegible] cities of the west, and is nearer to the trade centres of the northwest than is any part of Texas. It might surpass Texas, if it would only heed the lesson taught by that wonderful state. Let us strain every nerve to secure railroads.

Now is the time to begin the work of developing our state, and if we do our duty in that regard we may expect a speedy and profitable return for our labor. It is in the power of the press to accomplish much, and at this juncture, every journalist should aim to advertise the resources of his immediate section to the utmost. The editor of the Dallas Herald did more to insure the development of northern Texas, than all the scrambling, worthless demagogues of that section put together. The city of Dallas owes its greatness to editor Sevindells, and the railroad men whom he induced to look to that quarter for investments. For our part we shall continue to work for the material advancement of Stokes county, and the country along the line of railways which we have been so zealously advocating. In the end we are sure of success, and the realization of our fondest hopes in this direction.—Danbury Post.

Anti-Negro Republicans.

The Republican party has an element which has been trying to allow the negro to be recaptured by his enemies ever since the end of the civil war. They are like the priest and the Levite in the parable, who pretended not to see the man who had been beaten and stripped of his raiment by the thieves of Jericho, and so passed by on the other side. President Johnson's policy was the first demonstration of the kind. When his provisional state governments in the south, controlled by the unrelenting enemies of the negro, were put in peril by the military bill reported by the joint committee on reconstruction, of which Senator Fessenden was chairman, in February, 1867, the BLAINE amendment was proposed as a sort of fender. Under this the Johnson governments would have been continued with instructions to allow the negroes to vote, which would have been a dead letter. This amendment was voted down, Thad Stevens characterizing it as an effort to "lead us into the sheepfold or goatfold of Andrew Johnson." While the Republican party was still engaged in efforts to protect negro rights by force, then this anti-negro element was found opposing force bills. When by their conduct they had demoralized the north, and made the house Democratic for six years, the southern negroes sought protection by an alliance with seceders from the Democratic party. At once their old Republican enemies reappeared, and are now acting in Democratic interests, by demanding that the negroes shall refuse to affiliate with any new friends.—National Republican.

Champagne Quickly Made---A Hint to Our Wine Makers.

"Just try some of this champagne," said a Broadway dealer to a New York reporter as he poured out a glass of the sparkling liquid. The wine was rich in color, and seemed to have the bouquet and flavor of certain brands of French champagne. "That champagne is but a year old, and is the product of American vineyards. It is made by what is known as the carbonating process. Sit down and I will give you a bit of my experience.

"I have studied wine making ever since I left school in 1864. About that time I was taken into a wine house at Stuttgart. After remaining there a few years I went to Mayence. Later on I was connected with the well known firm of G. H. Mumm & Co. When I came to this country I already felt dissatisfied with the old process of making champagne. Could there not be found some shorter and less costly method, I often asked myself. Well, the artificial process was discovered, and I immediately adopted it, and I must say that it has given me entire satisfaction, although it has many enemies. By what is termed the 'natural process' the carbonic acid gas is generated in the bottle by a long and difficult process of fermentation. The bottle must be corked and recorked several times and the wine must be seasoned for four or five years before it is ready for the market. By the artificial process this is all done away with. The gas is forced into the wine from the carbonic generating apparatus in the same manner as into the water of soda fountains. The gas is as pure as any that can be made, for it is evolved in a machine which is lined inside and out with a thick layer of silver. No adulterants whatever are employed in the manufacture of these wines. Rock candy is used to sweeten them, but this is necessary even in the natural process. The wines from which our champagnes are made come from the best vineyards of California and Ohio. Come down in my cellars a moment, and I will show you some of them."

The cellars, two in number, were cool and inviting. Along the thick stone walls were arranged tiers of great butts of wine. On the head of each cask was marked the name and date of the vintage it contained. "The principal kinds used by us in the making of champagne are Zinfandel and Jutedel. They are shipped to us as soon as made and stored in these cellars, until they become 'bottle ripe.' This usually requires from six months to a year's time. Of course everything depends upon the quality of the grape in wine-making. Give me a first class grape and I will make you a first class wine. But the quality of the grapes varies in different years. The crop last season was excellent in quality. There may be some truth in the old notion that comet years [illegible] ment of fine flavor in grapes, since last year was indeed a comet year. You may obtain some idea of the amount of carbonated wines consumed in this country from the fact tha I alone have sold 21,000 cases during the past twelve months An enterprising merchant has recently put up some of his wine in siphon bottles for the use of sick patients who use but a small amount at a time."—Richmond Industrial South.

The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Western N. C. Railroad, was held here last Tuesday.

The new Board of Directors elected are, R. B. Vance, Jude Avery, Judge Schenck, Col. W. E. Anderson, Col. A. B. Andrews, Col. Frank Coxe, S. H. Wiley, Col. A. S. Buford, of Richmond, and Gen. F. M. Logan, of New York.

The application of the C. C. and A. Road to lay a third rail on the Chester and Lenoir Narrow Gauge from Newton to Hickory, was referred to the president and directors.

The president read his report in which he stated that he had been west and had succeeded in perfecting arrangements with the principal lines for through connection with all the great cities of the west, at favorable rates for passengers and for freights.

As we learn, freights can now be brought from the great western cities over this line—which is to be known as the French Broad Line—as cheap, and really on better terms, than by the old lines.

There is now only about 30 hours' ride from here to St. Louis or to Cincinnati.

Col. Andrews was re-elected President, Col. Coxe, first Vice President, and Col. A. L. Reeves, second Vice President; V. E. McBee, Superintendent, E. P. Erwin, Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. George Yates, M. M., Mr. J. W. Daniels, Auditor, and Mr. W. A. Turk, Freight and Passenger Agent.

Very complimentary resolutions were passed in honor of Mr. J. R. McManus, who had resigned to take a position in Virginia.

We are glad to know that the outlook for the Western N. C. Railroad is very encouraging, and it is to be hoped that our merchants will now use this line for transporting their freights from the west, as we are assured that it will prove fully as cheap and equally expeditious.—Salisbury Examiner.

During the first year of the Tyer coal cross over 3,000,000 pads were sold and worn, and yet when you take a man off one side and confidentially ask him if he thinks he was really benefitted he gets fighting man in a minute. Why on earth do they act that way?

Silk Culture---The People's Industry.

In is estimated that there were 20,000 people engaged in silk culture in the United states last year, and 40,000 will be engaged in it next year; and that supposing our 50,000,000 population comprises 10,000,000 producers, silk culture may shortly transfer (women, children and old men) 10,000,000 from non-producers to producers. Silk culture enabled France to discharge a war debt quicker than so large a debt was ever paid by any other nation. Cities and towns may adorn their streets and parks with the mulberry and thereby turn hovels into cocooneries, and make their poor, aged and infirm self-supporting and contented.—There are 380 silk mills in the United States. Two-thirds of the raw silk which they use is imported, for which $35,000,000 are annually sent abroad. Silk culture can retain all this money at home, and put it at once into the pockets of farmers' wives and daughters. There is no reason why the entire demand of the mills should not be supplied by cocoons produced here. Silk culture can be conducted wherever mulberry trees will grow; and the harviest, as well as the best varieties, will grow almost everywhere in the United States. Taxation is reduced by whatever increases national wealth. National wealth is simply individual prosperity. Silk culture is the only industry applicable to every individual. It brings money to the humblest "hewer of wood and drawer of water," the farmers's wife and daughter, the brown-armed son of toil, teacher, scientist, clergyman, alike. It is peculiarly the people's industry.—Richmond Industrial South.

Southern Cultivator for June.

This standard agricultural journal for June is on our table. It affords us much pleasure to note the improvement in this periodical since it came into the hands of the present publishers, and especially to note the continued improvement, for each number really seems to surpass the others.

It is creditable to our southern farmers that they are sustaining their journal, (for it is emphatically theirs) so handsomely. And they will doubtless find that the more liberal they are in their patronage the more richly the paper will deserve their support.

This number has Dr. Jones' "Thoughts for the Month," full of practical suggestions for the cultivator of the crops now growing. We give a few of the leading articles, omitting, of course, the greater number: "Amber Cane Sorghum," "Shipping Vegetables," "Good Roads," "Laws for the Farmer," Bill Arp's letter, full as usual of rich humor and fine common sense, the third installment of "Dickson's System of Farming," a contribution to the political history of Georgia (with fine portrait of Gov. McDaniel and the late Senator Hill,) Orange Grove Talk, with a full page illustration of the culture and shipment of the fruit in the state of Florida, and many other articles of interest. All the departments, "Cattle," "Poultry," "Fish," "Apiary," "Health" etc., have received careful attention.

This number has an interesting contribution on the life and death of John Howard Payne, author of Home, Sweet Home, accompanied by his portrait.

One of the most interesting articles of this number is a comparative statement of the cotton crop for the past thirteen years, showing the amount of money received for it and what became of it.

There are several pages of the "Inquiry Department" and "Letters from the Farmers" abounding in suggestions and vastly instructive.

We can but advise every farmer not a subscriber to send $1.50 to Jas. P. Harrison & Co., Atlanta, Ga., for this valuable publication.

Immoral Publications.

Some appalling statistics are given of the amount of work done by the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, in seizing and destroying vile literature. When the society began operations ten years ago, there were 165 different obscene books published in the United States, and numerous photographing establishments were in full blast, manufacturing the most indecent pictures. As the result of persistent effort in the face of bitter opposition, the society reports that not one of the books is now issued, and the photographing establishments have ceased to exist. Of books and sheet stock, 27,584 pounds have been destroyed, with 14,495 pounds of sterotype plates, 352 engraved steel and copper plates, 539 wood-cuts and electro-plates, and 50 lithographic stones; add to this 1,376,330 circulars, catalogues, songs, poems, &c. (nearly $1,000 in 1882), and we get a fair idea of what a noble work the society has accomplished in destroying this destructive and disgusting poison. The society has also seized and destroyed 203,238 obscene pictures and photographs, 7,400 microscopic pictures for charms, &c., 1,700 negative plates, and 6,122 indecent playing cards The boldness of the purveyors of this poison and the extent of their business is shown by the fact that 22,354 newspapers containing advertisements of obscene matter have been destroyed; 165,280 open letters have been found on persons arrested; 6,000 names of dealers have been discovered; 2,421 letters and packages ready for mailing have been captured, and in the same way 976,125 names and postoffice addresses, that are sold in lists as matters of merchandise, have been secured. The friends of decency and good order must rejoice in the good work accomplished by the society.

A MALARIAL VICTIM.

The Trying Experience of a Prominent Minister in the Tropics and at the North..

TO THE EDITOR:

The following circumstances, drawn from my personal experience, are so important and really remarkable that I have felt called upon to make them public. The truth can be amply verified:

In 1875 I moved from Canton, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., to Florida, which state I intended to make my future residence. I purchased a home on the banks of the St. John's river and settled down, as I thought, for life. The summer following the first winter I was conscious of most peculiar sensations which seemed to be the accompaniment of a change of climate. I felt a sinking at the pit of the stomach accompanied by occasional dizziness and and nausea. My head ached. My limbs pained me and I had an oppressive sense of weariness. I had a thirst for acids and my appetite was weak and uncertain. My digestion was impaired and my food did not assimilate. At first I imagined it was the effort of nature to become acclimated and so I thought little of it. But my troubles increased until I became restless and feverish and the physicians informed me I was suffering from malarial fever. This continued in spite of all the best physicians could do and I kept growing steadily worse. I the year 1880 my physicians informed me a change of climate was absolutely necessary,—that I could not survive another summer in the south, I determined to return north, but not to the extreme portion, and so I took up my residence at Upper Sandusky in Central Ohio. The change did not work the desired cure and I again consulted physicians. I found they were unable to effect a permanent cure, and when the extreme warm weather of summer came on I grew so much worse that I gave up an hope. At that time I was suffering terribly. How badly, only those can appreciate who have contracted malarial disease in tropical regions. It seemed as if death would be a relief greater than any other blessing. But notwithstanding all this, I am happy to state that I am to-day a perfectly well and healthy man. How I came to recover so remarkably can be understood from the following card voluntarily published by me in the Sandusky O. Republican, entitled:

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN: During my recent visit to Upper Sandusky, so many inquiries were made relative to what medicines, or course of treatment had brought such a marked change in my system, I feel it to be due to the proprietors and to the public to state that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure accomplished for me what other medicines and physicians had failed to do. The malarial poison which had worked its way so thoroughly through my system during my five years residence in Florida had brought me to the verge of the grave, and physicians had pronounced my case incurable; but that is not to be wondered at, as it was undoubtedly one of the worst on record. Hough Brothers, of your city, called my attention to the medicine referred to, and induced me to try a few bottles. So marked was the change after four week's trial that I continued its use, and now, after three months, the cure is complete. This is not written for the benefit of Warner & Co., but for the troubled with malarial or bilious attacks."

Such is the statement I made, without solicitation, after my recovery, and such I stand by at the present moment. I am convinced that Warner's Safe Cure is all it is claimed to be, and as such deserves the great favor it has received. A remedy which can cure the severest case of tropical malaria of five years' standing certainly cannot fail to cure those minor malarial troubles which are so prevalent and yet so serious.

THE WILMINGTON POST.

WILMINGTON, N. C.,

SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 8, 1883.

WALDEN, BRUNSWICK, Co., N. C., May, 30, 1883.

EDITOR POST:—Allow me a small space in your valuable paper to say that the most outrageous, the most cowardly usurpation of power that ever happened in a community, took place in Shallotte township, this county, May 21st. The sheriff of Horry district, South Carolina, come over the line in search of two escaped prisoners; he went to the house of Richard Flowers, abused him in the presence of his wife, tied him and made his way back to South Carolina, carrying Flowers with him and placing him in Horry jail, upon what charge I cannot tell you. This outrage was perpetrated without legal authority—no warrant, no writ. Now, I ask if such an outrage is to go unnoticed and unpunished, I am a law abiding man, and wish to see the laws strictly obeyed, and all offenders punished, but this is a little too much of a good thing. I will state, further, that the sheriff asked Jesse Wilson if he thought anybody would interfere to prevent his perpetrating the outrage. The sheriff's posse was accompanied by two Brunswick men, G. P. Frink and P. Thomas.

Yours truly, WM. GRISSETT.

The Wicked Boy.

"What ails your pa's teeth," asked the groceryman man of the bad boy. "The hired girl was over here to get some corn meal for gruel, and she said your pa had lost his teeth."

"Oh about the teeth. That was too bad. You see, my chum has got a dog that is old, and his teeth have all come out in front, and this morning I borrowed pa's teeth before he got up to see if we couldn't fix them in the dog's mouth so he could eat better. Pa says it is an evidence of a kind heart for a boy to be good to dumb animals, but it's a darn mean dog that will go back on a friend. We tied the teeth in the dogs mouth with a string that went around his upper jaw and another around his under jaw, and you'd a died to see how funny he looked when he lefted. He looks just like pa when he tries to smile so as to get me to come up to him so he can lick me. The dog pawed his mouth a spell to get the teeth out, and then we gave him a bone with meat on, and he began to gnaw the bone, and the teeth came off the plate, and he thought it was pieces of the bone and he swallowed the teeth. My chum noticed it first, and he said we had to get in our work pretty quick to save the plates, and I think we were in luck to save them. I held the dog and my chum, who was acquainted with him untied the string and got the gold plates but there were only two teeth left, and the dog was happy. He waggled his tail for more teeth, but we had'nt any more. I am going to give him ma's teeth some day. My chum says when a dog gets an appetite for anything you have got to keep giving it him or he goes back on you. But I think my chum played dirt on me. We sold the plates to a jewelry man, and my chum kept the money.—Milwaukee Sun.

THE WILMINGTON POST.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 8, 1883.

[For The Wilmington Post.]

Memorial Day at Salisbury, N. C. May 30th.

MR. EDITOR.--Early in the morning of May 30th, Rowan county was aroused by the roaring of cannon, reminding us that the time had again come to pay the tribute of respect to those noble and patriotic soldiers who lie buried in the National Cemetery at this place. At an early hour people came flocking in from all parts of this and adjoining counties, to participate in the decoration.

At 11 o'clock the streets was thronged with happy hearts, who seemed to believe that they had a duty to perform that none other could do save themselves. At half past 11 o'clock an excursion train arrived from Asheville, N. C., with a large number of mountainers. The procession was formed at the A. M. E. Z. Church, headed by the Salisbury brass band, followed by the different fire companies, andthe Asheville brass band. Next in procession was the different Sunday schools, Zion Wesley school, and the I. O. G. S. and Daughters of Samaria, then came the great mass of citizens, next was several carriages and buggies, among whom was the orator of the day. All proceeded in regular line of march up Church street to Horah's, thence to the cemetery, where religious services was conducted by the Chaplain, Rev. F. C. Potter. After the decorating the graves of those noble heroes who sleep beneath the silent sod, the President of the day, Rev. C. R. Harris, ordered that the procession reform and proceed to the Court House, where the Hon. J. E. O'Hara, orator of the day, would address them. In perfect order Mr. J. B. Ballot, Chief Marshal, with a great host of followers, retired to the appointed place to listen to the addresses.

At 12 o'clock M., the President called the house to order, and introduced, after a few preliminary remarks the Hon. J. E. O'Hara. Mr. O'Hara came forward amid rounds of applause, and spoke at some length, why the negro should commemorate that day and the great good that was accomplished by the death of those noble heroes.

Mr. O'Hara was listen too with marked attention. His speech and presence was admired by all, and we felt greatly blessed that we had with us the only repsentative of the negro in congress. We can with pleasure say, that Mr. O'Hara reflected great credit upon himself, and the race which he represents.

After Mr. O'Hara had concluded, Rev. J. C. Price, President of Irvin Institute, was introduced, and in his usual, able and eloquent manner, held his audience spell bound for something over forty miuutes. Mr. Price is undoubtedly an able man, he has distinguished himself as an orator, not only among his fellow citizens of America, but among the "Solons" of the old world.

After a few remarks from several distinguished gentlemen, the benediction was prounced by the Chaplain, and all retired feeling that all had been greatly benefited.

The crowd that gathered at Salisbury on that occasion, was by far the greatest that we have ever seen gather on smilar occasion, there was between two and three thousand, greatest of all there was not an arrest during the whole day and not a single intoxicated man could be seen, notwithstanding all the barrooms were opened. This speaks well for the negro, it shows improvement for the race.

Mr. W. C. Coleman of Concord, was here with his pair of fine well trained, and beautiful cream horses. Mr. Coleman is an enterprising man, and reflects credit upon his people which he represents.

Mr. Editor, I think we will be doing injustice to the faculty and students of Zion Wesley Institute, should we not say something respecting the closing exercises, which we witnessed yesterday.

At half past 10 o'clock, Rev. J. C. Price called the people to order, and after a few laconic remarks, introduced Rt Rev. S. L. Jones, D. D., of the A. M. E. Zion Church. The Bishop spoke at some length upon the subject, "The Irrepressibility and Hopefulness of the Negro." I need not say, Mr, Editor, that this address was rich and rare, full of facts and truths. The Bishop's address was able and eloquent. The exercises in the afternoon, consisted of essays declaiming and orations by the students.

We can say never before have we seen students exhibit themselves better, than the students of Zion Wesley, notwithstanding the extraordinary length of the programme and the warm weather, all seemed to enjoy themselves, and listen to them with marked attention. Some of the orations and essays of Zion Wesley yesterday, would have reflected credit upon any institution. Having heard the students one would conclude at once, that there has been nothing left undone on the part of the faculty. They have we believe faithfully performed their duty. Zion Wesley under the present management, is destined to do a great work. After the programme was exhausted, several distinguished visitors addressed the school. Among them we find, Rev. J. C. Clinton of S. C., Rev. J. W. Walker of S. C., Rev. J. H. McFarley of Va., and Rev. W. H. Goler of Greensboro, N. C., all spoke in commendable terms of the students and faculty, with Rev. J. C. Price as an orator, and Profs. C. R. Harris and E. Moore, as educators, and the pious and accomplished scholar lady Mrs. M. E. Harris, as mistress. the school cannot help grow and flourish. In a few years Zion Wesley will be the school of the south. The good people of Salisbury, N. C., congratulate themselves, that they have such an institution of learning among them.

Yours for the cause of education and the progress of the negro.

W. E. HENDERSON.
